FROM THE VICARAGE

June is Jubilee month and whenever my attention is drawn to the Queen, her example of service comes to mind. Princess Elizabeth, during her visit to South Africa, which my parents remembered so clearly all their lives, made this promise on her 21st birthday:

'I declare before you that my whole life whether it be long or short shall be devoted to your service and the service of our great imperial family to which we all belong. But I shall not have strength to carry out this resolution alone unless you join it with me, as I now invite you to do: I know that your support will be unfailingly given. God help me to make good my vow, and God bless all of you who are willing to share in it.'

What has unfolded is a very long life of service, and there have been many difficult years, many good years, times of great happiness, and times of great sorrow – much the same as we all experience in this transient life.

Some may be quite unmoved by a life of service in surroundings of obvious opulence and luxury, but this is perhaps what makes the Queen's dedication to her duty remarkable. She did not need to be so faithful to her calling; throughout history there have been good and bad monarchs. In this day and age, with her role not a political one, would dereliction of her duty have caused much upheaval? Yet she 'put duty before personal preference, showing remarkable restraint and self-sacrifice' in order to keep her public promises.

Being accountable for how we live our lives seems an old-fashioned idea, for many times the focus these days is on "self care", being true to oneself. Service to others is what we do, so that we feel better about ourselves.

Perhaps this generalised statement seems harsh, but the truth is that the human condition requires offering and accepting service to and from others. And Christians know that ultimately there will be a reckoning, and we will be accountable for all that we have done or left undone. This would be an intolerable burden without God's help and guidance, and his infinite mercy. As the Queen said in 2002: 'Each day is a new beginning, I know that the only way to live my life is to try to do what is right, to take the long view, to give of my best in all that the day brings, and to put my trust in God.'

Psalm 23 is one of the Queen's favourites, but perhaps she identifies with that other monarch of long ago, King David, who wrote: 'The Lord is my strength and my shield; in him my heart trusts; so I am helped, and my heart exults.' (Psalm28v7.) We may not live like royalty, but we are all called to serve; let's do it to the best of our ability and give thanks to God for our Queen.

God bless you all

A Good Reader

During the a conversation I had with Annie Baillie when she and Richard first came to the village Annie asked whether there was a Book Group in the village. There was not – but Annie quickly formed one. We used to meet in The Giant's Rest on Sunday evenings. Along came lockdown, the pub closed and when the group started again we met in the summer house at Hunter's Dene. We didn't know then that Annie was a writer with her first novel almost finished. Alas, that novel hadn't made it to publication when Annie died. This surprises me because I had the opportunity to read the manuscript and was puzzled that so powerful a piece of writing had not found a publisher. Annie did have a short story published – it was both clever and stylish.

What we did learn at Book Group was that she was not only well read but that she was sharp and pointed in her comments. I was indebted to her for leading me to some excellent reading and I want to recall some of those books here. It was, for example, Annie who pointed me towards "A Little Life" – a book which I have written about before but one I would recommend. It's a novel I read in bursts. There are times when the events are so painful that I needed to stop reading at the end of some episodes – but it is full of compassion.

Of all the books Annie recommended to me There were two that I particularly enjoyed. The first of these was "Hamnet" by Maggie O'Farrell. I had not read any of O'Farrell's well received and prize winning novels but she was a particular favourite of Annie's. Hamnet is a historical novel which is about the short life of Shakespeare's son who died of the plague when he was eleven years old. I suspect that writing a historical novel about great writer is a risky undertaking and little enough is known about the life of Shakespeare which might make the task easier. There have been, of course, many attempts to seek in the plays clues to Shakespeare's life to round out the limited factual knowledge. In a sense, this book does something of the same and it's easy enough to surmise that Hamnet, Shakespeare's son in the novel, might be a foreshadowing of the protagonist of one of his plays. This novel goes far beyond that – it does imagine what the internal life of the poet/dramatist might have been as well as giving us a sense of what life in that period was like - but its real theme is about grief and how overwhelming the death of a child can be. It is brilliantly written, warm, tender and sad.

The second book "Shuggy Baines" by Douglas Stuart is a different thing altogether. It won the Booker Prize in 2020 having been rejected, it appears, by over 30 publishers. The book is about a boy living in a deprived part of Glasgow. It took me some time to appreciate how unjust my initial reaction to the novel was. You might think this is just another story about a poor lad in a rough background because it is that on the surface and that is brilliantly created. However, it is really about love and perseverance. Don't allow the Glasgow dialect and the rugged background to put you off reading the novel. Like Hamnet, the surface is a surface beneath which is traced a story about fundamentals.

The book group is a place of enjoyment, discussion, and disagreement. Last year I recommended that we might read "Going, Went, Gone" by the German novelist Jenny Erpenbeck. I had known nothing of her before coming across a chance mention of this novel but she is seen as one of Europe's foremost writers. The story concerns a newly retired Classics professor who is wondering how his days are going to be filled. He lives in Berlin and has gone through the reunification of East and West Germany. By chance, he comes across a group of refugees from Africa who are living rough in Berlin and as his concern for them develops he begins to query what his life is for. It's often hard to tell what a translation does for a novel, but the spare prose of this novel is compelling. One critic I read described the book as having "a wonderfully plain and candid tone". Is the book about migrancy and how we might treat refugees? It certainly is but those are the circumstances which leads into an exploration of a man's life. I enjoyed it enormously but not everyone did and I think it was the style that was not liked.

Finally for this month another translation of a novel which I would have wished to share with Annie. "The Frozen Heart" by Almudena Grandes is translated from the Spanish and I came across this when a speaker on a podcast described it as having "the wide scope of a novel by Tolstoy". That's a hard recommendation to resist even if you know it will mean something both long and serious. Don't be put off by its cover which has all the appearance of a romantic pot boiler. It has an epic sweep and concerns two linked families whose lives are distorted by the Spanish civil war and its aftermath. I don't think you need to have much prior knowledge of the complexities of that period to understand what is happening as that emerges as the novel develops. It's not set entirely in that period. The time frame switches back and forward from the events of the war to its continued impact on the families. It's a delight to read full of colour and life and I fully recommend it.

I hope that the Book Group will continue and I also hope that there will be more members who can join in sharing the enjoyment of what you read. If you would like to be kept in touch with the group, please email me at: a.m.webster@btinternet.com

FAMILY SUPPORT WORK, MAY 2022 UPDATE

Dear Friends,

Thank you to all of you who joined us back in April for our Easter Walk. It was a fantastic day and we hope that everybody enjoyed themselves. We hope that the event will raise around £5000 once all sponsorship money has been collected, which is a wonderful result and provides much-needed funds to support our East Sussex work.

Our new practitioners joined us at the start of May and are settling in to their areas, meeting local contacts and beginning to build caseloads. We are so happy to have them on board so that we can offer our services to families in areas which have not had support for many years. You can find out more information about our new practitioners on our website or Facebook page.

Work with families is really gathering speed now, and the challenges of coping with the cost of living increases are the key issue for most of them. We have also seen a rise in families being referred to us for domestic abuse reasons, which means a lot of very gentle and nurturing support is required.

Open Garden season is upon us now and there are many garden openings to look forward to over the spring and summer months. Full details can be found on the Events page of our website and we do hope you are able to join us at some of them. We are also planning many family events for the Jubilee weekend in various parts of Sussex, as well as a return to Warnham Park for the first time since 2019 and a new family day at Ashburnham.

If you collect items for our foodbank, we would be particularly grateful for jam and other spreads, rice, toiletries and household cleaning products. We are fully stocked with cereal, pasta and tea so please avoid these if possible.

Thank you for your continued support of FSW's work.

April's work in numbers

189 individual visits and 474 calls with families supporting 355 adults and 331 children
 19 supported meetings with other agencies
 27 group sessions held supporting 379 parents and 242 children
 188 food deliveries made

Prayer points

Pray for our new family support practitioners, that they will quickly feel part of the team and their local communities

Pray for all of the children we support who are about to take GCSE exams

Give thanks for new contacts made in recent months which may lead to new sources of financial and volunteer support

The Rambling Publican

Grogshop News 6

*I love to go a-wandering, along the mountain track,
And as I go I love to sing, my knapsack on my back.
Val-deri, Val-dera, my knapsack on my back.*

Having twice whistled my way along the South Downs Way from Winchester to Eastbourne, I can testify first-hand just how miraculous it is for a tired and thirsty pilgrim to finally stumble down from the hills towards a vision of Jerusalem - which in my case is the pub that I'll be staggering into after a hard days walking. Then hallelujah: boots off, hot shower, a pint or two of God's own nectar (cheers), a substantial well-cooked meal and a comatose night luxuriating in a warm comfortable bed. Heaven on earth! What's for breakfast?

The South Downs Way is a 106 mile rambling trail stretching between the ancient cathedral city of Winchester and the white chalky cliffs of the Seven Sisters and Beachy Head at Eastbourne. The advice from guidebooks is to walk west to east - towards Eastbourne. The trail follows prehistoric routes across the rolling ridge-lines of Hampshire and Sussex, meandering through the cultural patchwork of the South Downs National Park - the UK's newest and busiest - and eventually into our lovely village of Wilmington. Where's the pub?

As fortune has it our grogshop (AKA Long Man Inn) is on the South Downs Way and once revamped, will have four private overnight rooms for weary wayfarers to rest up in and recuperate before saying hello our mysterious guardian on Windover Hill and heading off towards the finishing line. Pint of Long Man please.

The final stretch of the trail from Wilmington to Beachy Head across the Seven Sisters, makes for a spectacular emotional finale and if you're lucky, you'll get the prevailing winds whistling behind your back, easing you forward.

*Walk on, walk on with hope in your heart
And you'll never walk alone.*

Sussex Zookeepers Celebrate Double Co-Chair Appointment to National Zoo Association

Drusillas Park near Alfriston is celebrating the outstanding achievement of two of their zookeepers who have both been appointed co-chair positions within the British and Irish Association of Zoos and Aquariums (BIAZA).

Zoo Animal Manager, Mark Kenward, has been appointed co-chair of the BIAZA Carnivore Sub Group, and Head Keeper, Gemma Romanis, has been selected as the new co-chair of the BIAZA Small Mammal Sub Group.

Both positions form part of BIAZA's Mammal Working Group, sitting within the wider Living Collections Committee, which aims to promote and ensure the highest standards of animal welfare, husbandry and management in zoos and aquariums

Mark Kenward spoke about the appointment "I've been fortunate to work at Drusillas for over 20 years, and have been zookeeping for almost 30 years, and it's the best career anyone can hope to have. My new appointment means I'll be assisting other zoos in the UK, and sometimes across Europe, in how best to manage the carnivore species from a welfare and conservation point of view, and ensure their survival for the future."

Mark continued, "Previously I was on the Small Mammal sub group and I'm delighted that Gemma has now taken that position. Gemma and I have worked together for 10 years and it's a huge achievement to have two zoo professionals from the same collection working with BIAZA in co-chair positions, so I feel incredibly proud. It's a wonderful opportunity and I'm really looking forward to working with colleagues from other zoos and the wider animal community."

Gemma Romanis spoke about her new appointment: "Animals are my life passion and I started my career nearly ten years ago, and have continuously pushed myself professionally, trying to learn as much as I can. I'm incredibly proud that this has now led me to the position of co-chair, and I'm excited to now be involved in advising and guiding other collections caring for small mammals. It's a big achievement for me to take my place within the zoo community and I can't wait to work alongside my peers towards our goal of ensuring best practice in caring for the species."

Among their new duties, Mark and Gemma will contribute to articles, care sheets and best practice guidance, attend twice yearly meetings, and facilitate collaboration with other BIAZA committees.

Located just off the A27 in Alfriston, Drusillas Park is open daily from 10am. For more information, please telephone 01323 874100 or visit www.drusillas.co.uk

Update on The Sheppard Monuments

We were looking forward to welcoming Stone Conservators Emma and Tom from the Skillington Workshop, on Easter Tuesday. They were due to start work on the restoration and re-installation of the Thomas and Sarah Sheppard Monuments, which had been dismantled and put in store last July, 2021. Sadly, on account of serious Covid illness and their heavy work schedule to then catch up on (including a chapel in Ely Cathedral), they will now come to Saint Peter's in early September, probably in the first week. Emma and Tom will be under the direction of Dr David Carrington, ACR, FSA, of the Skillington Workshop Ltd, Grantham. These two wall - memorials were the work of the notable Victorian sculptor Charles Raymond Smith (active c.1820-1872).

The work will coincide with the Annual Ride and Stride event on Saturday September 10th, when Saint Peter's will be manned all day and will hope to welcome walkers and riders. We do hope that visitors will be interested to see and learn about the project being carried out by skilled stone conservators, on monuments that are a part of local history.

On May 3rd the Annual Parochial Church Meeting was held in the church, chaired by the Rector, The Reverend Prebendary Stephen Stukes. Seven apologies were received. The PCC was re- elected en bloc, with Mr Alan Best and Mrs Sabrina Harcourt- Smith to continue as Churchwardens, Mrs Elizabeth Chisholm as Treasurer, Mrs Elizabeth Fieldsend as Safeguarding Representative, Mrs Abigail Sargent as Deanery Synod Representative and Mrs Mel Norman as Secretary.

With the happy arrival of warm weather, there will very soon be plants for sale in the porch.

Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth's Platinum Jubilee Celebration on June 2nd through June 5th.

The service of Holy Communion on Sunday June 5th, to be taken by one of the Benefice Team, will have special prayers and hymns and all are invited to enjoy festive refreshments after the service

We are continuing to save milk bottle tops, ribbons, cartridges and stamps for the Friends of Eastbourne Hospitals. Boxes can be found by the organ. Many thanks.
